

When 19-year-old Christian Hall was shot and killed by Pennsylvania State Police on December 30, 2020, officers claimed that they were defending themselves from a "criminal" who posed an "imminent threat." The original video released by the Monroe County district attorney blurred over the last few moments of Christian's life, when officers opened fire on this so-called threat. Later, a subpoena to release the full video revealed that Christian was holding his hands in the air above his head at the time of his death.

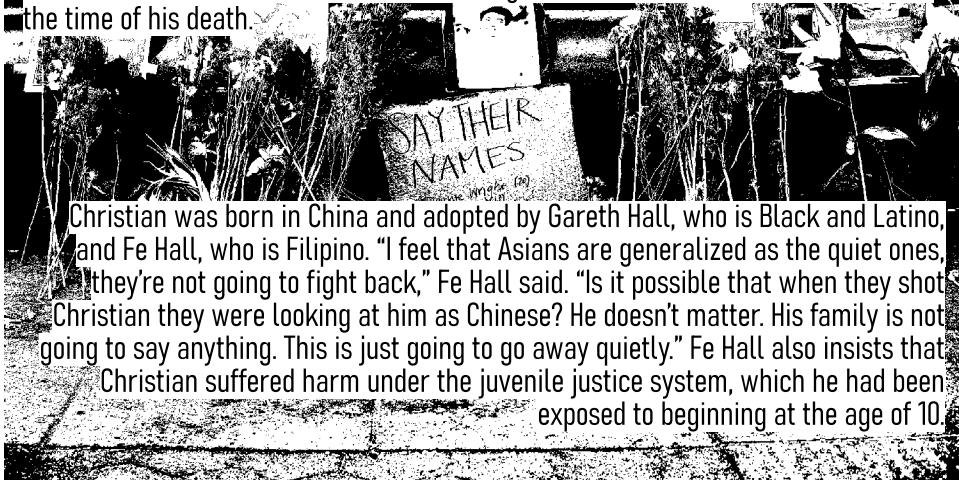

Christian was born in China and adopted by Gareth Hall, who is Black and Latino, and Fe Hall, who is Filipino. "I feel that Asians are generalized as the quiet ones, they're not going to fight back," Fe Hall said. "Is it possible that when they shot Christian they were looking at him as Chinese? He doesn't matter. His family is not going to say anything. This is just going to go away quietly." Fe Hall also insists that Christian suffered harm under the juvenile justice system, which he had been exposed to beginning at the age of 10.

When 19-year-old Christian Hall was shot and killed by Pennsylvania State Police on December 30, 2020, officers claimed that they were defending themselves from a "criminal" who posed an "imminent threat." The original video released by the Monroe County district attorney blurred over the last few moments of Christian's life, when officers opened fire on this so-called threat. Later, a subpoena to release the full video revealed that Christian was holding his hands in the air above his head at the time of his death.

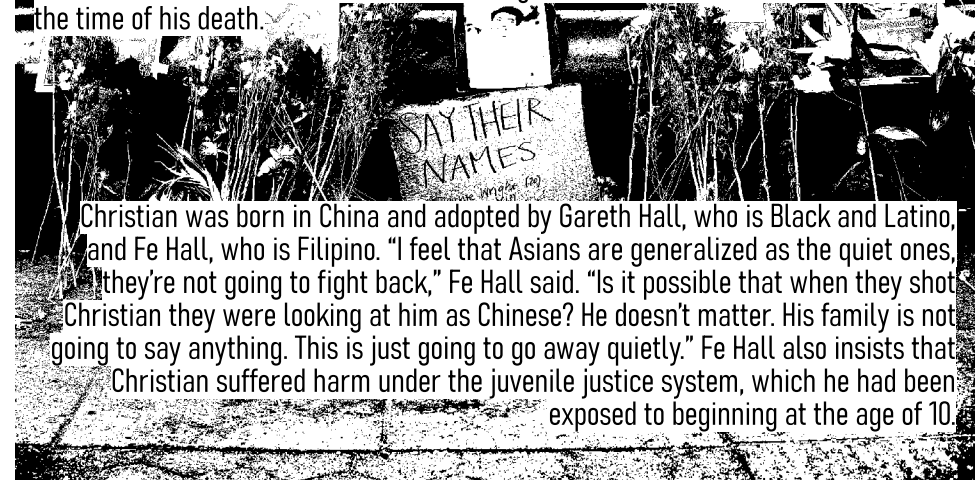

Christian was born in China and adopted by Gareth Hall, who is Black and Latino, and Fe Hall, who is Filipino. "I feel that Asians are generalized as the quiet ones, they're not going to fight back," Fe Hall said. "Is it possible that when they shot Christian they were looking at him as Chinese? He doesn't matter. His family is not going to say anything. This is just going to go away quietly." Fe Hall also insists that Christian suffered harm under the juvenile justice system, which he had been exposed to beginning at the age of 10.

When 19-year-old Christian Hall was shot and killed by Pennsylvania State Police on December 30, 2020, officers claimed that they were defending themselves from a "criminal" who posed an "imminent threat." The original video released by the Monroe County district attorney blurred over the last few moments of Christian's life, when officers opened fire on this so-called threat. Later, a subpoena to release the full video revealed that Christian was holding his hands in the air above his head at the time of his death.

Christian was born in China and adopted by Gareth Hall, who is Black and Latino, and Fe Hall, who is Filipino. "I feel that Asians are generalized as the quiet ones, they're not going to fight back," Fe Hall said. "Is it possible that when they shot Christian they were looking at him as Chinese? He doesn't matter. His family is not going to say anything. This is just going to go away quietly." Fe Hall also insists that Christian suffered harm under the juvenile justice system, which he had been exposed to beginning at the age of 10.

When 19-year-old Christian Hall was shot and killed by Pennsylvania State Police on December 30, 2020, officers claimed that they were defending themselves from a "criminal" who posed an "imminent threat." The original video released by the Monroe County district attorney blurred over the last few moments of Christian's life, when officers opened fire on this so-called threat. Later, a subpoena to release the full video revealed that Christian was holding his hands in the air above his head at the time of his death.

Christian was born in China and adopted by Gareth Hall, who is Black and Latino, and Fe Hall, who is Filipino. "I feel that Asians are generalized as the quiet ones, they're not going to fight back," Fe Hall said. "Is it possible that when they shot Christian they were looking at him as Chinese? He doesn't matter. His family is not going to say anything. This is just going to go away quietly." Fe Hall also insists that Christian suffered harm under the juvenile justice system, which he had been exposed to beginning at the age of 10.

Link to get involved:
#JusticeForChristianHall

Link to get involved:
#JusticeForChristianHall

Link to get involved:
#JusticeForChristianHall

Link to get involved:
#JusticeForChristianHall

